1 Executive Summary

1.1 History

This Guideline accompanies the Child and Vulnerable Person Protection Policy (July 2020) which is an update of the Safe Place Service “Creating a Safe Place Policy” and incorporates some elements from the “Local Conference, Safe Place Policy”.

These policies were mature, robust policies and at the time Adsafe was established addressed current best practice approaches to Child Protection. While these documents clearly articulated a detailed list of policy imperatives, they lacked detail around assigning persons to be responsible for preventative and responsive actions needed in policy implementation.

As a result of the Australian Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sexual Abuse (the Royal Commission) child protection is a quickly changing landscape with various governments making significant adjustments to their child protection framework with amongst other things changes to legal requirements and the implementation of various child safe standards approaches to child protection. This introduces a shift in strategy from compliance to a smaller number of minimum standard legal requirements to an attempt at a larger number of better practice initiatives designed to meet a list of published standards.

1.2 A New Policy Framework

Adsafe will refer to its new policy framework as the Adsafe Child and Vulnerable Person Safeguarding Framework or the Adsafe Safeguarding Framework for short.

Given the history discussed above, Adsafe will develop its Safeguarding resources using layered documents. These being:

1.3 Audience

This document applies to organisations associated with the Seventh-day Adventist church including

1. Local churches including church companies, groups and church plants.
2. Incorporated entities set-up to administer the regional work of the Seventh-day Adventist church in various levels including the local conference, union conference in the South Pacific Division including division entities.

This document is specifically designed to inform two groups.

3. Members of governance bodies of the organisations listed in (1) and (2) above in whatever form they take. These might include members of Church Boards or equivalent, Board directors of incorporated entities and Executive Committees at each administrative level.
4. Persons appointed by these organisations with responsibilities outline in this guideline.

Other interested parties are free to peruse the document at leisure.

1.4 Governance Implications

It was identified by the Royal Commission that governance bodies for any organisation offering services to children has an important role in creating and supporting Child Safe organisations. This is articulated in the National Principles for Child Safe Organisations adopted by Australian and State governments. The most applicable principle that applies to governance and leadership is:

- 1 Child safety and wellbeing is embedded in organisational leadership, governance and culture.

As a member of a governance body with power to make decisions you are given the responsibility to ensure that the organisation you lead is a safe environment for children and the vulnerable person.

Adsafes has been assigned the responsibility by the wider church to develop, implement and improve appropriate responses to the risk of Child and Vulnerable Person abuse in the church communities. Adsafes then is your partner in assisting each organisation to minimise and hopefully eliminate abuse in the church. To this end Adsafes will develop material that will assist churches and church entities.

While it is not necessary for you to know all the detail of a child protection strategy, governance is about ensuring that policy is implemented appropriately and that persons are assigned to take responsibility for various key tasks in the church's prevention strategies.

Adsafes will work on regular review of this policy and any associated guidelines. While new guidelines are being developed and implemented you as a person with governance responsibilities are free to contact Adsafesafe to seek advice around any concern you may have.

1.5 Implementation Schedule

Policy implementation can be daunting. Adsafesafe has taken the approach to break the process down to smaller more manageable tasks. Instead of expecting the whole Adventist membership to be familiar with all elements of the framework, Adsafesafe would like to delegate various tasks to key individual who will manage these tasks on behalf of the governance organisation. The diagram found below explains how this can best be done. This document provides all the detail needed but is repeated in various forms for people who want to see it from different perspectives.

Guideline documents will include a Responsibilities section which is essentially a job description for key persons. The Implementation section is a statement of the process from beginning to end while the responsibility section is a listing of all the tasks assigned to a person from the Implementation section grouped under specific roles.

The diagram below provides a quick summary for members of governance bodies and for persons appointed to roles on how to approach implementation of this and other Adsafesafe documents. It should always be remembered that Adsafesafe was set-up as a resource for the church to guide its members on how to create safer environments where people can discover the love of God. No one person needs to bear the responsibility of this alone. While there is quite some complexity in Child Protection legislation and other requirements across Australia and New Zealand it is not an expectation that anyone individual needs to know all this information. Adsafesafe has the responsibility to manage this on behalf of the church. This means that if you have a concern about any child or vulnerable person matter you are welcome to call Adsafesafe. One of our core responsibilities is to provide advice. If you are struggling with any anxiety over child or vulnerable person protection matters, we would encourage you to contact us using anyone of the means outlined below.

2 Rationale

Church should be a safe place for children and vulnerable persons. The Church as an organisation has a duty of care to protect all persons who attend its activities from all forms of harm or abuse. To this end Adsafesafe was created as a service to oversight policy development and the implementation of procedures to minimise and ideally eliminate the potential for harm to children and vulnerable persons in the church context. This guideline specifically addresses this by implementing prevention strategies through:

1. policy implementation and improvement,
2. ongoing training for those who interact or make governance decisions on behalf of children and vulnerable persons, and
3. ensuring robust recruitment and screening procedures for the selection of employees and volunteers including those making governance decisions.

Designated Agencies through their boards also perform a governance role where oversight is given to all church activities. Employees and volunteers who are asked to perform this important role of the oversight of these activities need to be fully informed of matters relating to the protection of children and vulnerable person. To this end persons appointed to these governance roles in these agencies should:

4. complete an Adsafesafe developed or approved module in governance related child and vulnerable person protection training;
5. sign a Code of Conduct; and
6. pass a Working with Children Check clearance or equivalent.

Adsafesafe contends that a person who fails working with children screening is conflicted in any committee decision-making that relates to child and vulnerable person protection.

3 Aims

This guideline aims to outline the role requirements for volunteers and local conference employees who work in the local church context and any person asked to perform a governance related role in the local church or conference. To this end the guideline aims to outline:

1. the recruitment and screening procedures required for various roles in the church.
2. the child and vulnerable person protection training requirement for various roles.
3. through a Code of Conduct the behavioural expectations of persons holding various roles and call for a commitment to these behavioural expectations.

4 Scope

This guideline applies to all local church and Conference, Union and South Pacific Division appointed roles for employees and volunteers which form part of these entities' routine activities. Assessment of the prerequisites for roles necessary for ad hoc church and Conference events such as STORM CO programs or "Road to Bethlehem" should be managed through the risk assessment processes for these events and are covered by a separate Adsafesafe guideline.

5 Preamble

5.1 Governance

This guideline along with the Child and Vulnerable Person Protection Policy and all the other guidelines make up the Adsafes Safeguarding Framework for the Seventh-day Adventist Church in the South Pacific. This framework is written by Adsafes on behalf of the local churches and church companies to form policies and guidelines that inform the practices of these entities.

Responsibility for their implementation is given to the boards that govern these entities. For incorporated church companies in Australia this is the church company boards. In New Zealand where the church is not incorporated this would be the respective executive committee.

Local churches however have a number of different governance structures. The traditional church has a local church board (as outlined in the Church Manual) which would take responsibility for the implementation of this framework.

A variant of a church called a Company as defined by the church manual has no board but rather is required to have three appointed leaders, the Leader, Clerk and Treasurer. A Company is an official Seventh-day Adventist church company when the executive committee of that conference minutes the formation of the company and records its leaders. It should be noted that not all companies set-up strictly following the Church Manual guidelines.

Other informal Seventh-day Adventist Groups are often formed when an Adventist member or a group of Adventist members decide to meet together with other interested persons in church plants or house churches. Adsafes considers that this type of church would be officially Adventist and hence within the scope of the Policy Framework if the respective local conference executive committee minutes the formation of the group and records the leadership team.

This guideline refers to the “local church board or equivalent”. Adsafes considers that the term equivalent would refer to:

1. The senior leadership team who makes decisions equivalent to the local church board where the church has chosen to use this form of governance.
2. The leader or leadership team for a company or group.

5.2 Working with Children Check or equivalent (WWCC)

Best practice in child protection strategies includes the notion of “Who does an organisation appoint to work with its children?”. This question can be answered using a number of tests. The most common of these is an assessment of a person based on known prior conduct. This includes a person’s criminal record in child related matters and other known (to the police) incidents against or in the presence of a child. Other strategies include checking of references and screening of candidates against a database of persons representing heightened risk.

Historically this risk assessment was done using a National Police History Check (Australia) or a Ministry of Justice Vetting (New Zealand). These documents would provide a list of court outcomes or pending charges of all matters not just child related. Organisations requiring the check would then have to infer from the listed outcomes the heightened risk. This process had a level of complexity as well as a sensitivity which made it difficult for organisations with a large number of small churches to accurately complete the process. Some jurisdictions allowed these checks to filter listed matters to be just child or vulnerable person risk related.

Legal requirements

In response to these challenges government agencies were established to perform the task of risk management on behalf of the wider community and the individual organisation. This process resulted in a certification that a person had no known heightened risk factors and was cleared to work with children. These mechanisms were written into law in the various jurisdictions across Australia and New Zealand creating a legal obligation for churches and church companies to check persons before they were given access to the children in their child related services.

It should be understood that there are limitations on the WWCC clearance. A failed clearance only removes persons whose past conduct has shown heightened risk to a child's safety. It doesn't detect persons who will choose to be a risk to children in the future or where prior risky behaviour toward children is undisclosed.

To this end some jurisdictions have implemented child safe standards that require other screening mechanisms such as checking of references and checking of candidates against a database of known offenders. These mechanisms are written into this guideline.

Voluntary use of a WWCC as a risk assessment mechanism

Government agencies performing the task of WWCC clearance for the wider community specify the types of roles where organisations are required by law to perform a WWCC verification on their staff in these roles. Most of these agencies allow anyone to obtain a WWC Check or equivalent whether or not they are performing a child-related role which requires a check under the relevant legislation.

Table 3: Voluntary Use of an Agency's check

Category	Jurisdiction
Jurisdictions that allow its WWC check to be used voluntarily by persons not in prescribed roles	Australian Capital Territory New South Wales New Zealand Northern Territory South Australia Tasmania Victoria
Jurisdictions that only allow its WWC check to be used for the agency's prescribed roles	Queensland Western Australia

Adsafe has been given the responsibility to create and implement policy and procedures that support child and vulnerable persons within the church. This task is complicated by the fact that Adsafes work crosses a number of jurisdictions. It is further complicated by the fact that a number of government investigations into child protection are either recently completed or in process at this time. These have resulted in recommendations to governments and church bodies which are presently being reviewed and have resulted or will result in adjustments to the Safeguarding Framework. This is evident in the introduction of child safe standards which encourages organisations to take a best practice approach to child protection rather than minimum standard.

Adsafe's response to these standards, better practice approaches and potential future legislative changes is to seek some uniformity in requirements across jurisdictions. To this end Adsafes reiterates a decision made by Safe Place Services, the former Adventist

Child protection service to recommend to the church that persons making governance decisions about the church's programs for children and vulnerable persons should complete Awareness Training, sign a Code of Conduct and pass a WWCC. This imperative is evident in this guideline and while this is not a legal requirement it is seen as a better practice approach to important decision making. Adsafes argues that a person who fails a WWCC may be conflicted when it comes to making decisions about the church's services for children.

As a result of the matters discussed above this guideline will make reference to "Working With Children Check or equivalent" (WWCC or equivalent). The WWCC will be a general term that refers to the screening process in each jurisdiction such as Police vetting, Blue card, Ochre card or Working with Vulnerable People registration card. The equivalent will refer to the voluntary alternative available to persons who are prohibited by law to use the WWCC or who prefer not to voluntarily use the WWCC when not required by law. This alternative is the Ministry of Justice Vetting in New Zealand or the National Police History Check in Australia. These alternatives may incur extra cost and involve extra work to complete the check. For this reason Adsafes's preference is to use the WWCC mechanism if available.

6 Accountabilities

Accountability for compliance to this guideline is passed to:

1. Executive Committees or Boards of Church Companies within local Conferences, Union Conferences and the SPD for items 7.2 and 8.2
2. The Local Church Boards or equivalent for items 7.1 and 8.1

as a constitutional requirement to comply with the South Pacific Division Working Policy and the South Pacific Division Supplement of the Church Manual as evident by:

"All purposes, policies and procedures of the Conference shall be in harmony with the working policies and procedures of the Union Conference, the Division and the General Conference." (Greater Sydney Conference Constitution, Article 3)

and further

"There is no priority higher than protecting children, and other vulnerable people, within our care. This is something close to the heart of God (see Matthew 18:6), and cannot be done through wishful thinking or vague aspirations. In order to intentionally protect children and the vulnerable from abuse, and be admitted to membership, or maintain membership of the sisterhood of churches, local church congregations must comply with AdSAFE child safe policies." (Church Manual up dated 2016, Page 239)

and further

"Compliance

To ensure the church provides a safe environment for children and vulnerable adults, all denominational organisations within the Division are to use and abide by the AdSAFE policies, processes and directions." (South Pacific Division Working Policy, SER.10.55: AdSAFE Ltd)

7 Point of Contact

2. the Local Church Adsafes Compliance Assistant,
3. the Local and Union Conference Adsafes Responsible Officer,
4. the Local and Union Conference Adsafes Compliance Assistant,

Screening	Adsafe's understanding of the term Screening come from the objects and powers expressed in its constitution namely "to develop policies and screening procedures that mitigate against the risk of abuse." The purpose of screening is then to mitigate against the risk of abuse and as such has a broader interpretation then the implementation of just one measure such as a Working with Children Check but rather a suite of measures. These include the checking of referees in both a religious and work context, criminal history checks for both child related and general risks and outcome of internal or systemic engagement (employed and voluntary) related investigations. Records around previous engagement related investigations both recent and historical are held at Adsafes as part of its established objects namely "to establish and administer a register of persons of concern and known offenders" and to use this to mitigate risk.
Working With Children Check (WWCC)	For the purpose of this document the term Working with Children Check is a broad term that refers to a process where the risks of abuse to children associated with a person working with children is assessed using the person's criminal history and may include other child related risk factors, This results in a "clearance" to work with children or a prohibition ("failed clearance") for the person to work in child related roles. Across Adsafes jurisdictions governments have taken different approaches to this process of assessment. Many have taken the approach of creating agencies who do the risk assessment on behalf of entities who work with children, notifying them of the result of the check. Others have mechanisms to apply for the criminal histories of persons wishing to work with children requiring these entities to make the risk assessment themselves. In some jurisdictions the agencies charged with managing the Working with Children Check process have a mechanism to notify entities when changes around a person's profile have been received signalling that a reassessment of risk for a person has commenced. In these jurisdictions, it is a usual requirement that the person is temporarily stood down from child related roles until this reassessment is completed.

Term	Definition
Working With Children Check verification	The problem with a Working With Children Check based on a published card is that the clearance status is only valid at the time the card was published. Changes to the criminal history or other risk factors associated with a person working with children doesn't automatically update the card. To address this weakness many clearance agencies have a facility to link a person to an organisation. When changes to the risk factors occur, the agency will inform the organisation of an "interim failed clearance". The person is then required to be stood down from the role while the person's status is reassessed. In some jurisdictions, this linking of a person to an organisation is required by law and is part of the verification process. Other jurisdictions provide a facility for linking to be done. Some jurisdictions are yet to provide a facility where the organisation is automatically updated when a person's status has changed. WWCC that rely on an organisation assessing the criminal history of a person have no mechanism to provide an update of status. Appendix A provides a table on verification and linking process within each jurisdiction.

7. In the process of selecting persons for roles in the church, nominating committees are reminded of the following:
- a) Six-Month Policy - Requirement of a waiting period of six months for newly baptised or transferring members who have indicated a willingness to work with children – (SDA Church Manual. Notes, 7 Safeguarding children, Point d)
 - b) In addition to the minimum six (6) month standard for newly baptized or transferring members, a twelve (12) month qualifying period shall apply for prospective staff and volunteers who are non-members or who are new to the congregation. – (Creating a Safe Place Policy, 3.3 Qualifying Periods, 2)

- c) Volunteer Screening – Have all volunteers complete a volunteer information form, check their references, and if required by law or policy do a police background check*. (SDA Church Manual. Notes, 7 Safeguarding children, Point c) * or equivalent Working With Children Check.
- d) Claims of Sexual Abuse established – “2a. If the relevant authority or AdSAFE determines that the allegations are established, the church member shall be placed under censure for one year or removed from church membership by a duly called business meeting of the church (as outlined in the SDA Church Manual, chapter 7, Discipline). While under censure such individuals shall not hold any position of responsibility in the church. Nor shall they, in the future, hold any church office or position of responsibility in the church that places them in contact with children or youth (e.g. Sabbath School, Pathfinders, youth and social activities) as this could place these young people in a position of vulnerability, and signal to them that the church supports this individual as a trustworthy leader.

2b. After one year, such individuals may only be considered for a church office or position of responsibility in the church that does not place them in contact with children or youth, after their situation has been carefully examined by the Church Board when it has received, acknowledged and acted upon the professional advice sought from the relevant authority or AdSAFE regarding their specific case.

The church must at all times uphold its duty of care* to all church members, and make the church and its ministry activities a safe place for all worshippers, young and old.

* Duty of Care describes the responsibility that all church members have to exercise the powers of their leadership within an ethical framework of accountability that ensures the best interests of all church members and attendees.” (SDA Church Manual 2016, P 242)

- e) Roles that are imbued with moral or spiritual authority and leadership – “In addition, it is the Policy of the Union throughout Australia and New Zealand that a person subject of allegation (PSOA) about whom a ‘positive finding’ or a conviction is determined (by a Court, Tribunal, or Church adjudication process) regarding an offence of a sexual, violent, or pornographic nature against a minor, shall not be permitted to either hold church office or perform a task that is imbued with moral or spiritual authority and leadership. Such office or task includes but is not limited to that of Elder, Deacon, praise leader, preacher/speaker in the pulpit for worship services, ceremonies, and any outreach meeting or other similar program or meetings.” (Creating a Safe Place Policy, 5.2 Future Church Roles if Claims are Established, Proven or Sustained Regarding a Person Subject of Allegation (PSOA), 2)

8. Prior to the commencement of the work of the nominating committee the Adsafe Responsible Officer should provide a list of active church members who could potentially be considered for roles in the new church year to Adsafe. These will be screened against Adsafes list of persons of concern. Adsafe will indicate to the Adsafe Responsible Officer which members should not be considered for positions with a reason.

9. The Nominating committee will be presented with a list of eligible members to be considered for appointment by the Adsafe Responsible Officer.
10. The Nominating committee will identify from the list persons who are new to the community. The Nominating committee will delegate a member to approach each of these persons to discuss the persons interests and skill and possible roles they may take in the new church year. This process will be guided by Checklist D: Members new the community: interests and skills assessment.
11. The Nominating committee will establish a list of roles to be filled.
12. The Nominating committee will review Role Description templates provided and select or modify appropriate descriptions for the church.
13. The Nominating committee will use the Role Description templates to establish selection criteria and insert any additional criteria as needed for each of these roles.
14. The Nominating committee when considering prospective officers will work through Checklist A: Important things to consider when selecting person for roles in the church.
15. Once the Nominating committee has selected a prospective officer for a position a member of the nominating committee should be assigned to approach the proposed officer seeking consent to accept the nominated role and in doing so should follow the process as outlined in Checklist B: Tasks to cover when seeking the consent of a prospective officer for a role including their willingness to meet the role requirement before commencing the role. This should include notifying the candidate that in taking on the role that if allegations are raised about their conduct this may be the subject of investigation under a state based reportable conduct scheme or as Adsafes Investigable Conduct.
16. The members of the Nominating committee when seeking the consent of prospective officers must emphasise the expected role requirements as outlined in Table 1: Prerequisites for roles in the local church that must be met before the commencement of the role.
17. Prospective officers who choose not to meet these prerequisites should not be nominated for the position.

Compliance to prerequisites

18. The Adsafes Compliance Assistant will receive the ratified Child Related role schedule from the Adsafes Responsible Officer. (see 5 above)
19. Once the Nominating committee report has been adopted by the church it is the role of the Church's Adsafe Compliance Assistant to work with each officer appointed into child related roles to certify that the prerequisites have been met. This task should be managed on the online training portal with the Assistant updating the church's existing records changing the status of members no longer holding roles, members with existing records who have been newly appointed, and assisting to create records for newly appointed members who have no record in the database.
20. At least two weeks prior to the commencement of the new church year the Adsafes Compliance Assistant should provide to the Adsafe Responsible Officer a list of appointed officers for the new church year who are yet to meet the prerequisites.

21. The Adsafe Responsible Officer will make contact with those on the list reminding them that unless the prerequisites are met, they will not be able to commence their new role.
22. In the week prior to the first Sabbath of the new church year the Adsafe Responsible Officer will again check if the prerequisites have been met. If these are still outstanding the officer will be stood down from duties until they are met.
23. The senior leadership team for the church will need to make contingency plans for the delivery of the church program while these church officers are stood down.

Church Year processes

24. If the working with children status of a church officer changes during the church year the Adsafe Responsible Officer will be notified by the Church's Adsafe Compliance Assistant or the appropriate government clearance agency or by the affected church officer. This could be either an interim failed clearance in jurisdictions that notify at the beginning of a risk reassessment or a failed clearance for jurisdictions that notify at the end of a risk reassessment.
25. The Adsafe Responsible Officer will notify Adsafesafe and seek advice.
26. Persons given an interim failed clearance will be stood down by the Adsafe Responsible Officer until the notification of a cleared status is received at the end of the risk reassessment process.
27. While the appropriate government clearance agency reviews the working with children status of an officer, Adsafesafe may implement an Interim Fellowship Agreement.
28. If after due process the status remains uncleared Adsafesafe in consultation with the senior leadership team may implement a fellowship agreement and the officer will be permanently stood down from the appointed role.
29. If the working with children status is reinstated then the officer can recommence work in the appointed role.

Expiry dates and Renewals

30. For the purpose of this guideline renewals refer to the (1) renewal of a Working With Children Check, (2) updating required training or (3) signing of an updated Code of Conduct
31. In some jurisdictions Working With Children Checks are given an expiry date by the regulatory authority. In the jurisdictions that have no expiry date according to Adsafesafe Policy the expiry date will be set as two years from the time of the initial check.
32. The Adsafe Compliance Assistant for the local church will keep a record of this expiry date on the online training portal.
33. In jurisdictions where the WWCC is the responsibility of the child-related worker that worker will be expected to process a renewal with the appropriate government clearance agency.
34. In jurisdictions where the WWCC is the responsibility of the organisation (NZ) the Adsafesafe Compliance Assistant will seek the child related worker's assistance in getting the check renewed before its expiry.

35. Adsafe Awareness Training and other required modules for various roles have a required renewal schedule. Expiry dates for these training modules will be set in the online training portal.
36. Adsafe will update Codes of Conduct from time to time. Adsafe's policy is that persons performing roles in the church will need to re-sign the updated Code of Conduct within a specified time period. This will be managed on the online training portal for persons with Internet access.
37. Child related workers with active email addresses in the online training portal will be sent an email generated by the training portal reminding them that a renewal is required.
38. For child related workers without active email addresses the online training portal will send an email to the Adsafe Compliance Assistant reminding them that a renewal is required for the worker. The Adsafe Compliance Assistant will inform the worker of the required renewal.
39. For updated Codes of Conduct for persons without Internet access the Adsafe Compliance Assistant will print out the Code of Conduct and get the person to sign. The Adsafe Compliance Assistant will then update the online record (or contact Adsafes to do so) and file the signed Code of Conduct.
40. The Adsafe Compliance Assistant will certify a renewed Working With Children Check with the appropriate government clearance agency and update the online record.
41. The Adsafe Compliance Assistant is to notify the Adsafe Responsible Officer before the first church event the name of any officer with an outstanding renewal.
42. The Adsafe Responsible Officer will stand down any officer with an outstanding renewal from the role commencing from the expiry date until renewal has been completed.

Church Board Compliance Reporting

43. The Church Board will have a standing item on all Board meeting agenda called Child and Vulnerable Person Protection. This provides opportunity for all protection matters to be raised.
44. The Adsafes Responsible Officer will prior to each board meeting print out from the ALMS the role requirements compliance report for the church and table this at the meeting for the Board's review.

11.2 Church Companies

Child and Vulnerable Person Church Company Roles

1. The church company is a designated agency as defined by Adsafe and as such the executive officers of the church company should appoint an Adsafe Responsible Officer who is responsible to implement Adsafe's Church Company Child and Vulnerable Person suite of policies. This should generally be the appointed General Secretary for the Conference but in some circumstances, with approval of Adsafe, may be one of the other executive officers.
2. Church Company Events

For the purpose of this guideline an event is a short-term (day or overnight) service or program organised by the Church Company for members or attendees from its local churches which may include members of the public. Events include but are not limited to Big Camps, summer camps, Pathfinder camporees and fairs, Adventurer camps, youth or teen rallies and regional days.

Staff working in child related roles during these events (employees and volunteers) are required to meet certain prerequisites similar to staff used in regular church child related services or activities.

For some events the children attending are in the care and supervision of staff for the whole time (24 hours per day). Examples of these type of events include Pathfinder camporees and summer camps.

For other events there are specific child related activities inserted into the program where the supervision of a child is transferred to staff for the length of the activity. Examples of these type of events include Big Camps or regional days. At other times during the event parents are responsible for the supervision of their children.

Pathfinder Camporees are special events where the local church Pathfinder club provides the child related staff to supervise attendees at all times except during activities where the care is delegated to specially trained Church Company staff.

23. The Church Company Adsafe Responsible officer will assess the program for each event organised by the Church Company and determine whether the whole event is child related or only certain activities and develop a list of child related activities.
24. The event organiser will determine in consultation with the Adsafes Safe-guarding team an appropriate number of staff for each of these child related activities based on the expected number attending.
25. The Adsafes Safe-guarding team will Create an online (ALMS) event record for the event.
26. The event organiser or her delegate will recruit appropriate staff for each activity. are reminded of the prerequisites for these persons listed in the table below Table 2: Prerequisites for roles in the local conference. The event organiser or her delegate must inform prospective staff of these prerequisites and only continue with the appointment if the person is willing to meet these requirements prior to the commencement of their engagement. This should include notifying the candidate that in taking on the role that if allegations are raised about their conduct this may be the subject of investigation under a state based reportable conduct scheme or as Adsafes Investigable Conduct.

27. The event organiser or her delegate will provide a list of proposed staff for each activity to the Church Company Adsafes Compliance Assistant at least two weeks prior to the event.
28. The Adsafes Compliance Assistant will
 - a) screen the proposed staff with Adsafes.
 - b) invite staff with existing training records to be linked to the event record created in 25 above and
 - c) invite staff without existing training records to create a user record, complete training, sign the Code of Conduct and verify their WWCC or equivalent.
29. Three days prior to the start of the event the Adsafes Compliance Assistant will provide the Adsafes Responsible Officer with a list of staff yet to meet the prerequisites.
30. The Adsafes Responsible Officer will remind these staff that these requirements need completion before the first activity.
31. Prior to the commencement of the first child related activity the Adsafes Compliance Assistant will provide the Adsafes Responsible Officer with an updated list of the non-compliant staff.
32. The Adsafes Responsible Officer will stand down any non-compliant staff member from the activity.

Changes in Status

33. If the working with children status of a child related worker changes during the period of engagement the Church Company Adsafes Responsible Officer will be notified by the Church Company Adsafes Compliance Assistant, the appropriate government clearance agency or by that child related worker. This could be either an interim failed clearance in jurisdictions that notify at the beginning of a risk reassessment or a failed clearance for jurisdictions that notify at the end of a risk reassessment.
34. The Adsafes Responsible Officer will notify Adsafes and seek advice.
35. Persons given an interim failed clearance will be stood down by the Adsafes Responsible Officer from all child related roles until the notification of a cleared status is received at the end of the risk reassessment process.
36. While the appropriate government clearance agency reviews the working with children status of an employee or volunteer, Adsafes may implement an Interim Fellowship Agreement within the church context.
37. If after due process the status remains as a failed clearance the Adsafes Responsible Officer will notify Adsafes and determine whether employment or the engagement can continue.

38. In the case of a failed clearance Adsafe in consultation with the senior leadership team at the church may implement a Fellowship Agreement within the church context.
39. If the working with children status is reinstated then the child related worker can recommence work in the appointed role.

Church Company Board Compliance Reporting

40. The Church Company Board may choose to delegate the oversight of Child and Vulnerable Person Protection matters to a subcommittee such as an Adcom Committee or its equivalent. The Church Company Board or this delegated subcommittee will have a standing item on all its meeting agendas called Child and Vulnerable Person Protection. This provides opportunity for all protection matters to be raised.
41. The Church Company Adsafe Responsible Officer will prior to each of these meetings print out from the ALMS the role requirements compliance report for the church company including any planned events and table this for the committee's review.

Expiry dates and Renewals

44. The Adsafe Compliance Assistant for the local conference will keep a record of this expiry date on the Adsafe online training portal.
45. In jurisdictions where the WWCC is the responsibility of the child related worker that worker will be expected to process a renewal with the appropriate government clearance agency.
46. In jurisdictions where the WWCC is the responsibility of the organisation (NZ) the Conference Adsafe Compliance Assistant will seek the child related worker's assistance in getting the check renewed before its expiry.
47. Adsafe Awareness Training and other required training modules for various roles have a required renewal schedule. Expiry dates for these training modules will be set by Adsafe in the Adsafe online training portal.
48. Adsafe will update Codes of Conduct from time to time. Adsafe's policy is that persons performing roles in the church will need to re-sign the updated Code of Conduct within a specified time period. This will be managed on the online database for persons with Internet access.
49. Child related workers with active email addresses in the Adsafe online training portal will be sent an email generated by the portal reminding them that a renewal is required.
50. For child related workers without active email addresses the Adsafe online training portal will send an email to the Adsafe Compliance Assistant reminding them that a renewal is required for the worker. The Adsafe Compliance Assistant will inform the worker of the required renewal.

51. For updated Codes of Conduct for persons without Internet access the Adsafe Compliance Assistant will print out the Code of Conduct and get the person to sign. The Adsafe Compliance Assistant (or Adsafes if necessary) will then update the online record.
52. The Adsafe Compliance Assistant will certify a renewed Working With Children Check with the appropriate government clearance agency and update the online record.
53. The Adsafe Compliance Assistant is to notify the Adsafe Responsible Officer before expiry the name of any officer with an outstanding renewal.
